
Call for Papers for PRISM, A Journal of Complex Operations

We are pleased to welcome the debut of PRISM, a complex operations journal. PRISM will explore, promote, and reinforce emerging thought and best practices as civilian capacity increases to address challenges in stability, reconstruction, security, counterinsurgency, and irregular warfare operations. PRISM complements Joint Force Quarterly, the National Defense University (NDU) flagship publication for 16 years.

PRISM is tailored to serve policy-makers, scholars, and practitioners working to enhance U.S. Government competency in complex operations by exploring whole-of-community approaches among U.S. Government agencies, academic institutions, international governments and militaries, nongovernmental organizations, and other participants in the complex operations space.

PRISM will be published four times a year. It welcomes articles on a broad range of complex operations issues, especially those that focus on the nexus of civil-military integration. NDU Press is now accepting manuscripts for inclusion in the inaugural volume of PRISM, to be published in December 2009. Manuscripts may vary in length from 3,000 to 7,000 words and should be submitted per the guidance governing Joint Force Quarterly manuscripts at: <http://smallwarsjournal.com/documents/ccojune2009newsletter.pdf>.

Submissions and any other questions concerning PRISM may be directed to Michael Miklaucic at miklaucicm@ndu.edu.
